Arrival of the Steamship Scandia
at Quarantine

WITH NUMEROUS CASES OF CHOLERA.

Thirty-Two Deaths During the Passage, Twenty-Nine of Them in the Steeage—A New and Serious Cause for Alarm.

Might Abatement of the Awful Disease in Hamburg—News from the Vessels Detained at Quarantine in New York Harbor.

QUARANTINE, Staten Island, Sept. 10.—At 1:30 this morning Dr. Jenkins received the following telegram from Dr. Denehy: "Have visited the Scandia this evening and find the following: Total number of passengers 1,098; cabin eighteen, steerage 981, crew seventy-seven. On the voyage there were thirty-two deaths, of which there were twenty-nine in steerage, one in cabin and two among the crew. I am starting in our tug Crystal Water to transfer seven cases of cholera to the hospital here on Swinburn Island."

The Scandia sailed from Hamburg on August 25, and was due here Thursday. It has been variously reported that she had about 900 steerage passengers and it has been expected that she would be the final ship of the plague-ridden American company, and the report shows that the first fears were not realized. No such mortality as that which Capt. Kopf has been compelled to admit has heretofore been recorded during the present reign of the plague.

The Hamburg-American Co. now has six ships under the ban of the health officers, to-wit: The Moravia, Rugia, Normannia, Wieland, Stabbenhuk and the Scandia.

The terrible report this morning certainly affrighted the fears of the health officers, who, after much anxiety to provide a safe refuge for the vessels in still retain health aboard while in the lower roadstead.

The Situation in Hamburg.

HAMBURG, Sept. 9.—The weather has been bright, and there has been a cool breeze today. Although the thermometer has stood at 60 degrees Fahrenheit most of the day the rise in temperature has been hardly noticeable, as the air has been dry and invigorating. The decrease in the number of fresh cases and deaths continues. To-day's cases number 108 fewer than yesterday, the dead number 248. There have been 109 burials. In the cholera hospitals 2,051 patients are under treatment.

Since yesterday afternoon there has been a rapid decline of the epidemic in the Harbor district, and to-night but thirty or forty patients are in the cholera barracks there. The general alarm apparent in the behavior of the people, A little life has been noticeable in the streets, although the streets were still徘徊 in a city of the dead. On the promenade along the Binnen Alster, which had been deserted since September 2, a few persons might have been seen at any time this afternoon taking an airing. Cafes which have had hardly ten patrons a day doubled their business. The newspapers seize the opportunity to tell the truth and rebuke the fears of the world.

In the poorer districts, the lack of employment must continue there for several weeks, and to the working people this means as many weeks on the verge of starvation. The general quarantine against ships from this port causes a veritable suspension of commerce, and so long as that quarantine continues there is no way but dependence for work to those who have been thrown out of their trade.

General emigration of laborers has been suggested as a remedy, but the prejudice throughout Germany against persons from the infected districts would render this impossible. The unrest among the unemployed is increased by the revolutionary literature scattered among them by social democratic agitators from Berlin and Altona, and the authorities fear that bread riots will break out within the next two weeks.

The relief committees have raised $60,000 marks to alleviate the sufferings of the poor. Among the most generous subscribers was Prince Blaenreuth, who gave 10,000 marks. The committees are not only showing the working people how to fight the cholera, but are distributing food among all who have no money to buy it. Subscriptions have come from all cities in the empire, as the work must be continued for several weeks, and the expenditures will be enormous.

The schools probably will not be open before the middle of October even should the present rate of decrease continue. The theaters will remain closed until the same time, although the varieties and beer gardens may resume by the end of this month, if their performances are restricted to all parts of Germany can be induced to return to the infected city.

Services of prayer are still held in all churches and the attendance is phenomenally large.

Reports from Linzbeck and Bremen state that since Wednesday those cities have been free from the plague.

A cause of Suspense and Anxiety Evolved.

QUARANTINE, Staten Island, Sept. 9.—Facts and figures plainly written out of the hands of Dr. Jenkins, and his deputy assistants this morning, caused by the anticipated arrival of the Wieland from Hamburg, which dropped anchor in the lower bay at an early hour this morning; but this feeling of suspense was to some extent allayed when the health officials boarded the ship and, after most careful investigation of every one of the 101 cabin passengers aboard, reported them in excellent health.

This statement was doubted by many persons because of the fact that the Wieland was one of the latest departures from the infected port of Hamburg, but subsequent official reports confirmed the news that the ship was free from the pest.

The official record of the day was three deaths and four new cases.

Deaths on the Wyoming—Eliza Phoebe Percever aged 3, and Victoria Eliza Percever aged 6 months.

On the Normannia—Carl Hirsch.

Newspaper on the Wyoming—Two Russian children, whose names could not be learned, and also the mother of the Percever children, Adolph Weisz, aged 21, one of the crew, removed to Swinburn Island.

The exact cause of the death of the two Percever children, who are Swedes, was a mooted question during the day, and no accurate information could be obtained from the doctor. Dr. Jenkins in making the official announcement of the deaths, said that they were smooth, and ridiculed the statement that they were victims of the scourge. He subsequently said that the children died from natural causes and asserted that there were no symptoms indicating cholera. The mother of the Percever children was taken with uncontrollable diarrhea, but the two Russian children, who cause the physicians diagnosed as diarrhea. Not being sure that this was correct and desiring to run no risk, Dr. Jenkins ordered the Wyom, which had been lying in upper quarantine to the lower bay. This action is believed, shows plainly that the ship is infected.

The Wieland sailed from Hamburg on Aug. 25, and was due here Thursday.

It has been variously reported that she had about 900 steerage passengers and it has been expected that she would be the final ship of the plague-ridden American company, and the report shows that the first fears were not realized. No such mor tality as that which Capt. Kopf has been compelled to admit has heretofore been recorded during the present reign of the plague.

Boats Fitted Up for the Reception of Detained Sailors.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The steamship Stonington and United States training ship New Hampshire are now being fitted up for the reception of the detained sailors on the Ruggia and Normannia.

The terrible report this morning certainly affrighted the fears of the health officers, who, after much anxiety to provide a safe refuge for the sailors in still retain health aboard while in the lower roadstead.

The situation in Hamburg.

HAMBURG, Sept. 9.—The weather has meter has stood at 60 degrees Fahrenheit most of the day the rise in temperature has been hardly noticeable, ment.

Probably a Canard.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—An article which appeared in the Minneapolis

Journal relative to the escape of an alleged Normanian passenger named

George G. Weaver instigated investigation into the matter here. From the fact that no such name as Weaver appears on the Normanian's passenger list it is to be inferred that the story is it cannot.

Quarantined at the Crimean Seaport.

ship Ironopolis, hailing from Middleton, has been quarantined at the Crimean seaport, Kertch. Eleven of her crew have been stricken with cholera and two have died.

In a room that seems not only to invite you to walk in but stay in. To have any other kind of a room is worse than absurd when we are selling Easy Chairs and Parlor Goods at such extremely low prices as at present, either for Cash or on Easy Payments. You get part of your money back every time you look round the room. It is perfectly true that there is no place like home, but it is also perfectly true that some homes might be a good deal more cheerful, cozy and comfortable than they are. Bleak and barren enough were the houses of long ago but there is certainly no excuse for that kind of thing now when we offer you such bargains.

SATURDAY EVEN, SEPT. 10, 1892.

Every man on the Republican county ticket will be elected because he ought to be.

Blaine's letter deals with the issues involved in the campaign in a way that will bear fruit in November.

The Raun meeting will be a good one.
He is worth seeing as he carries in his belt the stamp of Congressman Cooper, of Indiana, and several other Democratic congressmen who were after the pension office.

The Democrats seem to be disappointed that Blaine did not mention Harrison's name in his letter; but they do not want to lose sight of the fact that this is a campaign of issues and not of men. It is that which troubles the Democratic party and which they would be glad to escape from.

Tomas is a local Democratic candidate who in every speech he makes talks about laying aside all prejudice, and yet he was nominated for the sole purpose of appealing to prejudice. That is what the party and which they would be glad to escape from.

As orange juice is among the possibilities of the day. Free consumption of the fruit is said to be good for the complexion, and many ladies are testing the water for that.

Will not bear the light of facts.

Some of our Democratic friends, in spite of the fact that President Buchanan had his annual message in 1860 and the country's commerce had gone to ruin and good men were everywhere out of employment and that our friends were idle, are telling us of the good times during the free trade tariff of 1846-1860.
This is not only ridiculous to those who lived in those times, but the facts show the claim to be ridiculous.

Let me take a few illustrations from the facts and see how they look. In 1846 cotton cloth was selling at 12¢ cents a yard; sheeting, 15¢ cents; calico, 31¢ cents; silks, 10¢ cents; cambric, 12¢ cents; bar soap, 12¢ cents; linseed oil, $1.35; raisins, 25¢ cents a pound; gunnages, 24 cents; Turk Island salt, $1 a bushel; axes, $1.50; nails, 7¢ cents; quire paper, 25¢ cents. These are fair samples of prices to the consumer at that date, while his wage was only one-half what it is now, or 75 cents a day for ordinary wages and $1 for the very best help. For a carpenter in those days $1.25 was regarded as extravagant wages. Such a carpenter now gets $3.00 for 10 hours' work.

These are facts which cannot be disputed, and the quack tariff doctor who assumes the opposite is simply talking stuff. There is another fact these men forget, and that is that after 15 years experience with a free trade tariff the last year goods were just as high to the consumer as they were when the law was enacted. Over against this stands the fact that there has not been a period in any ten years in 1860 to the present time that the price of goods has not declined to the consumer, while at the same time wages advanced.

Why is this? By protection we secure competition and competition keeps invention and goods become cheaper.
Then again the primary object of a protectionist tariff is to preserve the American market to Americans and it may or may not raise prices. It enables our people to make our own goods without sending our money abroad for them. Our manufacturers, finding the home market, the best in the world, secure against cheap foreign competition know about how much they can sell and can figure prices down to the closest possible margin with slight chance of loss, while with foreign competition they were never sure of the market nor at what prices they might be compelled to sell their goods and therefore must calculate against large chances of loss. Their business is now more sure and they are willing to carry it on at narrower margin of profit, hence lower prices and higher wages have always followed a protective tariff.

rain, went away smiling. A soaking rain came between 9 and 10 o'clock and trans-was welcome for the corn and wheat, and
